Enjoying a festive feast

Hundreds of local people aged 65 and over enjoyed themselves at Waltham Forest Council's annual free Christmas meal events earlier this month

The borough's older residents were full of festive cheer as they tucked into traditional turkey dinners at Waltham Forest Council's annual free Christmas meal events.

The popular events, which first began in 2011, took place between Monday 5 and Wednesday 7 December, and saw scores of local people aged 65 and over gathering together to toast the festive season with friends old and new.

This year, there were three Christmas lunches and one dinner – one at Leyton Orient Football Club's Matchroom Stadium, two at Walthamstow Assembly Hall and one at Chingford Assembly Hall – attracting more than 1,000 older residents.

Leyton resident Linda Fuller, who attended the event at the Matchroom Stadium with her husband, said: "It's a really nice event, and it's so well-organised. We had a fantastic time. My husband recently had surgery, and it was wonderful that he could look forward to coming to the Christmas meal."

Chingford resident, Roy Stratton, added: "I came to the meal with my wife, and we knew a few other people who sat on our table, as well. The meal was very nice, and we thoroughly enjoyed ourselves."

Leytonstoner Adarsh Kumar attended on his own and declared the event as "great" and that he "enjoyed the great company".

Council Leader, Chris Robbins, told Waltham Forest News: "Events like the free Christmas dinners are fantastic occasions that celebrate our older residents. I am delighted that the events were yet again so well-received, with hundreds of residents enjoying some festive cheer – and, of course, an obligatory mince pie or two!"

Vote for day centre mural

You can vote for design A...

...or perhaps you prefer design B?

A day centre for people with learning disabilities is undergoing a major improvement project, which will see care facilities upgraded – and Walthamstow arts collective Wood Street Walls create a new mural around the outside of the building.

Residents and service users are being asked to choose between two designs for the multi-coloured mural on the Markhouse Road Day Centre. The most popular choice will be painted on to the building by 'Static' – the founding artists of Wood Street Walls.

Design ideas for the mural came from workshops with service users, carers, staff and the local community. You can see the two designs in the pictures on the left and cast your vote by visiting www.markhousemurals.co.uk. Alternatively you can tweet using the hashtag #markhousemurals voting with the letter 'A' or 'B'.

The Council-funded upgrade of the day centre will also feature some sound-reduction work to make the environment better for people with autism.

Ceilings are being replaced on the ground floor, rooms will be redecorated and the lighting improved – all helping to create a much more welcoming environment for service users. The project will also see new personal care spaces established and modern equipment and furniture installed.

Vote now!

To vote for your preferred design, visit www.markhousemurals.co.uk. For more information about adult social care in Waltham Forest visit www.walthamforest.gov.uk/careandsupport.

In my opinion

Dr Anwar Khan

Chair, NHS Waltham Forest Clinical Commissioning Group

It may be the party season, but as we all know coughs, colds and other illnesses take no heed of the celebrations.

As a local GP, who also works with the team at Whipps Cross Hospital, I know that people often think the only place open over Christmas and New Year is the A&E, but there are so many other better options for people.

As the festive season is one of the busiest times of the year for the NHS, it's important to remember that you should only go to A&E if you have a serious, life-threatening health problem which needs emergency treatment.

Many common illnesses like coughs or colds can be best and most easily treated by visiting your local pharmacy. Your pharmacist can offer advice on how to best look after yourself at home with rest and over-the-counter treatments. There is no need to book appointments, and most pharmacies have a consultation room.

As the NHS Stay Well This Winter campaign is advising, please take time to stock up on any medications that you may need before the holiday to save a trip to the pharmacy during the festivities.

In case you do need it, information on which pharmacies are open in Waltham Forest over Christmas and New Year will be available online at www.walthamforestccg.nhs.uk from Tuesday 20 December.

For non-life threatening emergencies, the NHS 111 service is available 24 hours a day, seven days a week. It is staffed by fully trained advisors and experienced clinicians who can help you get the right medical care as quickly as possible.

And while we know that nobody would choose to see a GP over the holiday period, if you do feel unwell, and it is not an emergency, or cannot be resolved by a visit to the pharmacist, please take advantage of the opening hours at one of the three Enhanced GP Service hubs during the holiday period.

The hubs in Chingford, Leytonstone and Walthamstow will be open from 9am to 5pm on Christmas Eve (Saturday 24 December), Tuesday 27 December, Sunday 31 December and Monday 2 January. Residents can book an appointment by phoning 020 8519 3999.

As the hubs will be closed on Christmas Day and New Year's Day, residents who feel they cannot wait until the following day to see a GP should call NHS 111, where they will be advised on the most appropriate health care service for them.

Wishing everyone a healthy and enjoyable Christmas and a Happy New Year!

A full list – from opening hours at leisure centres to information about emergency registrar's services – is available on the Council website, which is updated regularly.

Refuse and recycling

Refuse and recycling collections will take place as normal up to and including Friday 23 December. Thereafter, collections will take place a day later than usual. For example, if your refuse and recycling is normally collected on a Monday, you should leave it out on Tuesday instead.

All collections will return to normal from Monday 2 January.

Information about when your local reuse and recycling centres will be open is available on the Council website.

If you have a real Christmas tree place it next to your brown bin after the holidays and the Council will take it away for free.

Lots of festive packaging – from wrapping paper to food containers – can be recycled this Christmas using your green and brown bins. For tips, turn to the advert on the back page.

Call centre

The Council's contact centre will be closed from 5pm on Friday 23 December until 9am on Wednesday 28 December, providing an emergency service only on these days.

The service will then open during its normal hours; 9am to 5pm, for three days before closing again at 5pm on Friday 30 December. The service will resume as normal from 9am on Tuesday 3 January.

The Waltham Forest Housing contact centre will be open the same dates and hours as the Council's main contact centre, with an emergency repairs service operating during the holiday period.

Registrars

The registrar's team will provide an emergency on-call service only on Saturday 24, Monday 26 and Tuesday 27 December. There will be no service on Christmas Day.

The service will also operate between 9am and 2pm on Saturday

31 December, to cover pre-booked weddings and issue emergency burial certificates, only.

Residents needing to obtain an emergency green burial certificate for same-day burial for the Muslim and Jewish community can phone the registrar's team between 9am and 11am every day apart from Christmas Day.

Libraries

On Christmas Day, Boxing Day and New Year's Day all Waltham Forest Libraries will be closed.

But on all other days during the Christmas holidays, all four Library Plus branches (Chingford, Leyton, Leytonstone and Walthamstow) will be open as normal from 9am to 5pm.

Opening times at Library Locals (Hale End, Higham Hill, Lea Bridge and Wood Street) will vary by branch during the holidays, but they will generally open between 10am and 4pm, or 10am and 5pm. A full list of opening times is available on the Council website.

Higham Hill Library will close on Tuesday 27 and Wednesday 28 December, Hale End will be closed on Thursday 29 December, Lea Bridge is closed on Friday 30

December and Wood Street will be closed on Wednesday 28 and 29 December.

And while all Library Locals will be closed on Monday 2 January, the four Library Pluses will all open between 9am and 5pm. All libraries will revert to their regular opening times from Tuesday 3 January.

In brief

Council Tax support

Waltham Forest's Council Tax Support Scheme will see no reduction in the maximum level of support awarded to working age people, councillors have decided. The move comes after residents were invited to have their say on proposed changes to the current scheme. It means the maximum level of support awarded to people receiving financial assistance will remain capped at 76 per cent of their eligible Council Tax bill for the duration of the new scheme, which starts on 1 April 2017. Working age residents in receipt of support will still be required to pay at least 24 per cent of their Council Tax themselves. To be financially viable, a minimum award level of £1 per week will be introduced, meaning applicants who would otherwise be entitled to 99p or less each week will not be entitled to an award. In addition, those applicants receiving more weekly income than the Council assesses them as needing to live on will be expected to pay more of their Council Tax themselves – with the reduction applied to a person's income when their income is higher than their needs allowance increasing from 25 per cent to 30 per cent. This is equivalent to a reduction of an extra five pence for every pound the person has above what they are assessed as needing to live on. Pensioners are not affected by these changes.

• For more information, visit www.walthamforest.gov.uk/council-tax.

Library consultation

Residents are being urged to have their say on proposed improvements to Library Local branches in the borough. The Council's vision for Library Locals is for them to match up to the best public libraries in London, with no reduction in the number of branches and no resident living further than 1.5 miles from their nearest library. The proposals include upgraded ICT facilities; self-service technology; spaces for personal study; meeting spaces for library and community use; and space and flexibility to accommodate events and activities. You now have until Tuesday 31 January to complete the new consultation survey, and the original survey. The Council's preferred improvement option is that the Library Locals at Higham Hill and Wood Street would be relocated and remodelled into more modern and accessible buildings that are closer to other community facilities, while the site at Lea Bridge would be refurbished.

Council Leader's special message

With the start of another New Year rapidly approaching, I have been reflecting on my time as Leader of Waltham Forest Council, and the honour I have felt in representing the borough.

I am proud to have served Waltham Forest Council since 2002, and for the last eight years have served as Council Leader, striving to make things better for local people and make Waltham Forest a borough that offers its residents a good quality of life, with the services and facilities to help them and their families thrive in our eclectic part of London.

So, it was with a mixture of both sadness and satisfaction that last week (Thursday 15 December) I announced at the full Council meeting that I will be standing down as Leader of Waltham Forest Council in May 2017.

I am very proud to have led this Council for the past eight years and strongly believe that both the authority and the borough itself are in a much better place than they were in 2009.

It is therefore the right time to let someone else 'take the reins', and I am confident that the next Leader of the Council takes over a borough with much to look forward to and that they will continue to build on our achievements.

Despite ongoing financial challenges, brought about largely by cuts of more than £100m in government funding, we are financially stable and have built a strong reputation with residents and with the rest of London. By working together we have delivered a number of successes over the years.

I am proud to have overseen a huge period of change across our borough, from investing millions of pounds in our town centres, to lobbying government for extra powers to help keep our neighbourhoods clean and safe, and providing first class leisure facilities for residents of all ages.

Perhaps one of the highlights was in 2012, when Waltham Forest was one of the host boroughs for the London 2012 Olympic and Paralympic Games, with thousands lining the streets to see the Olympic Torch pass through. In the same year the William Morris Gallery re-opened to the public after a major redevelopment, and in 2013 it was named Museum of the Year by the Art Fund.

There has also been significant investment in parks and green spaces, including the bringing together of Ive Farm and Marsh Lane Playing Fields to create Leyton Jubilee Park, which was named to mark the Queen's Diamond Jubilee.

I am also delighted to have delivered what was a personal priority – bringing a permanent cinema back to the borough after more than a decade without one. The Scene at Cleveland Place complex opened in November 2014, with a nine-screen cinema, five new restaurants and 121 new homes, and has proved to be a catalyst for the regeneration of Walthamstow Town Centre.

Earlier this year I also had the honour of officially re-opening Lea Bridge Station after 31 years of closure, providing direct links to Stratford and Tottenham Hale and kick-starting the Council's ambitious redevelopment plans for the Leyton and Lea Bridge area.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank everyone for their support over the years. We could not have achieved as much as we have without working in partnership with the community and with local organisations who are doing their utmost to make life better for local people.

Celebrating Christmastime culture

The Council wants to help everyone living and working in the borough enjoy a good quality life. This includes investing in and promoting artistic and cultural opportunities for residents of all ages. Here we look at some of the latest ways in which residents can explore their creative sides or take part in cultural activities

X Factor star Jordan Lee with headteacher of Jenny Hammond Primary, Deborah Gibbon

Hundreds of pupils from across the borough performed at the Council's Civic Carol Concert

The massed choir included more than 270 primary school pupils

We think Waltham Forest is a fantastic place to live, which is why we're doing all we can to bring our vibrant and diverse communities together in celebration wherever possible.

Once again, this year we were able to enjoy a spectacular summer full of free, family-friendly festivals in Waltham Forest, and it looks as though we're in for an equally exciting 2017.

And this month is no exception, with a variety of events already taking place to get residents looking forward to Christmas and the New Year beyond.

Carol concerts

Hundreds of residents of all ages welcomed in the festive season at the annual Civic Carol Concert at Walthamstow Assembly Hall (Town Hall Complex, Forest Road, E17 4JF) on Tuesday 8 December.

A massed choir of 270 primary school pupils from across the borough – coordinated by the Waltham Forest Music Service and accompanied by the Waltham Forest Youth Orchestra, Kelmscott School Orchestra and the JGL choir – performed traditional and contemporary Christmas carols and read from the Nativity Story.

Canon Rodney Matthews from the Parish of Chingford led the audience in prayer, while the Mayor of Waltham Forest, Cllr Peter Herrington, made a short speech, in which he reiterated the theme of his Mayoral year; patience, understanding and tolerance – perfect sentiments for the season.

And that wasn't the only opportunity for residents to raise their voices and spirits, as a carol concert also took place in Leyton Coronation Gardens (Buckingham Road, E10 5NG) on Saturday 3 December, as part of the fantastic Frost Fair.

Arts grants

Artists looking for help getting their next project off the ground are being invited to apply for grants – and in turn help to establish Waltham Forest as the leading borough for arts and culture in outer London.

The Council has officially opened the latest round of its Arts Development Grants programme, and is encouraging anyone with an exciting and innovative artistic or cultural project to apply for funding.

The grants support any form of cultural activity that brings together residents and communities from across the borough. They provide creatives with an opportunity to try out a new idea or further develop an existing project.

Detailed information about the grant scheme, along with application guidance notes and criteria for applicants, can be found online – visit www.walthamforest.gov.uk/content/arts-and-events. Alternatively, the Council is hosting Q&A and surgery sessions for potential applicants.

The next Q&A session takes place on Monday 9 January, 6pm to 7pm in Committee Room 2 at Waltham Forest Town Hall. You are advised to book a place in advance, or fifteen minute, one-to-one surgery sessions are available from 7pm to 8pm. Email culture@walthamforest.gov.uk to book.

The deadline for applications is Monday 16 January 2017 at 8am.

William Morris Gallery

The family home of designer, craftsman and radical socialist William Morris is here in Waltham Forest – and houses the award-winning William Morris Gallery.

Owned and managed by the Council, the Gallery has developed an ambitious contemporary programme, hosting Morris-inspired exhibitions by artists including Grayson Perry, Jeremy Deller, Yinka Shonibare, Bob and Roberta Smith and Clare Twomey.

Its next major exhibition will display important Japanese paintings, prints, furniture and ceramics belonging to the personal collection of the gallery's founder Frank Brangwyn RA.

'Sheer Pleasure – Frank Brangwyn and the Art of Japan' will be a rare and exciting opportunity to view the works in the Brangwyn collection, many of which will be displayed publicly for the first time, alongside important examples of Brangwyn's own works. The exhibition is timed to mark the 150th anniversary of Brangwyn's birth and will explore the influence of Japanese art on his own work as well as his relationship with renowned Japanese artist Yoshijiro Urushibara.

The Gallery will show work by the painter and printmaker – and Royal Academician – Rebecca Salter.

X Factor

Finally, Waltham Forest has a great deal of creative talent to shout about, one of the most recent examples being Leytonstone resident and X Factor finalist Jordan Lee – one third of band '5 After Midnight'.

Jordan – accompanied by bandmates Kieran Alleyn and Nathan Lewis – paid a visit to his childhood home in Leytonstone on board their branded X Factor 'battle bus' on Tuesday 6 December. The band were greeted by hoards of excited pupils from Jordan's former school – Jenny Hammond Primary – and took the opportunity to catch up with friends and family members.

The group finished third overall, behind runner-up Saara Aalto and winner Matt Terry. The three finalists will be joined by Honey G, Emily Middlemas, Four of Diamonds, Ryan Lawrie and Sam Lavery on a nationwide arena tour next year.

Air Quality Champions will help crack down on idling motorists

Air Quality Champions

- New initiative aims to tackle harmful vehicle idling
- Volunteers are being recruited to take part in Anti-Idling Action Days

Leaving your car engine running while parked is known as idling, and it can be seriously harmful to health due to the significant amount of pollution it puts into the air. A study commissioned last year found that air pollution is a contributing factor in around 300 deaths per year in Waltham Forest, and the whole borough has been declared an Air Quality Management Area due to poor air quality. It's particularly harmful for children as their lungs are still developing.

To tackle the problem in Waltham Forest the Council has launched a new initiative called Air Quality Champions, which aims to help improve air quality and educate motorists on the dangers of idling, particularly at school drop-off and pick-up times. Local volunteers are also being brought on board to help spread the word.

"Air pollution is a huge concern in Waltham Forest due to the proven serious risk it poses to public health and the environment," said Cllr Clyde Loakes, Deputy Leader and Cabinet Member for Environment.

"Tackling the habit of idling by stationary motor vehicles will play an important part in improving air quality in the borough. We have adopted the limited anti-idling legislation that exists and will issue fixed penalty notices to drivers who fail to comply. However with our resources being limited we are also looking to work with local volunteers to help raise awareness and encourage people to change their behaviour around air quality."

Earlier this month the first Air Quality Champions workshop took place, where volunteers were given training on how to positively engage with motorists to encourage them to turn off their engines if stopped for 60 seconds or more. The Champions will now take part in Anti-Idling Action Days, where they will visit key areas, such as schools at pick-up and drop-off times, to interact with motorists and raise awareness of the dangers of idling. The volunteers will be accompanied by Council officers when carrying out this activity, and will be provided with all the equipment they need to take part.

volunteers will seek to educate idling drivers and also praise those who have switched off their vehicles while parked," added Cllr Loakes. "We hope that by doing this we can challenge and change behaviours without the need for formal action."

The Council is particularly keen to raise awareness of idling around schools, as parents may not be aware of the damage they could be causing to their children's health if they leave their engines running while waiting in their cars.

The Council has recently delivered 20 vinyl banners to schools in the borough for them to display to raise awareness of the issue, as well as supporting information for teachers, parents and children.

More info

If you are interested in becoming an Air Quality Champion, or if you would like to report an idling hotspot in the borough, email environmentalhealth@walthamforest.gov.uk.

Air quality facts

- Waltham Forest has been identified as an Air Quality Management Area, due to high levels of air pollution.
- Children breathe 50 per cent more air per body weight than adults, which puts them at a greater risk from air pollution.
- Leaving your engine running while parked wastes fuel which means you will spend more at the petrol pump.
- Idling is harder on your vehicle's engine than restarting it.
- You can warm the inside of your car more quickly by driving it rather than leaving the engine running while parked.

A sticky situation

- Unsightly stickers being removed from borough's shopfronts
- Council will track down and punish fly-posting companies

Neighbourhoods officers have been removing fly-posted stickers from shopfronts

You can't fail to notice when a shop shutter or doorframe in a high street or town centre gets covered in stickers offering shopfront repairs and other services. Not only is this an eyesore which can bring down the whole area, but it is also fly-posting which is anti-social behavior and illegal.

In order to prevent our streets becoming overrun with this sticky nuisance the Council has recently been removing them in hotspot areas across the borough. If you're an early riser you may have spotted the Council's Graffiti Team removing the stickers using a high-pressure jet washer.

Cllr Clyde Loakes, Deputy Leader and Cabinet Member for Environment, said: "The sight of shopfronts covered in these stickers is a real blight on the local environment, and not something we want our residents to have to look at when shopping in our high streets and town centres.

"We also want to make sure that these stickers don't make any unwelcome return, so we'll be looking to issue fixed penalty notices to those responsible for fly-posting, and reminding businesses that it is their responsibility to keep their shop fronts clean."

The cleaning programme started on Hoe Street in Walthamstow in late November, before moving on to Leyton High Road, Leytonstone High Road and other town centres in the borough.

The Council is not charging shops for the first clean, but they will be expected to take responsibility for removing the stickers if they return. For a charge the Council is able to offer a regular cleaning service and can also provide special paint, which prevents the stickers from sticking to shopfronts in the first place.

If a business fails to remove fly-posting from their shopfront the Council can issue them with a Community Protection Warning which requires them to remove it within seven days. If they fail to do this then a Community Protection Notice can be issued, which means the Council can remove the fly-posting and recover the costs from the owner of the property.

The Council can also issue fixed penalty notices to companies who continue to fly-post on private property.

The Council is also carrying out active enforcement work on any stickers that crop up in the borough offering 'massage' services. When identified these will be removed and the Council will work to track down those responsible, working in partnership with the Police. Residents who spot one of these stickers or have information about those responsible are asked to contact the Neighbourhoods team so it can be investigated further.

Recycling reminder

This Christmas you can play your part in reducing waste by making sure all used wrapping paper and cards, packaging from the kids' toys and empty bottles and cans are recycled and not mixed in with your general rubbish. But please remember, you can't recycle wrapping paper and cards that contain glitter or foil. Around 70 per cent of all household waste is recyclable by using your brown and green bins. Your green bin should be your main bin, and can be used to recycle tins, cans, mixed glass, mixed plastics, paper, card and plastic bags. All food waste should be recycled in your brown bin including items such as fruit and vegetable peelings, tea bags and coffee granules. Don't forget that you can include all food scraps and plate-scrappings, even bones. So make sure that long-forgotten turkey sarnie and portion of cold sprouts are recycled, and not left languishing in your refuse unnecessarily.

• For further information on what you can recycle, visit www.walthamforest.gov.uk/recycling or turn to the advert on the back page of this edition of Waltham Forest News.

Walthamstow Town Centre Improvements

We are working closely with Transport for London to transform the 'Walthamstow gyratory' (the area around Hoe Street and Selborne Road junction) to make the town centre a more pleasant, accessible and safer area for all road users.

A new traffic layout is now in place until Summer 2017 to allow for the construction of the new bridge over the railway line. Traffic travelling north along Hoe Street is diverted to the eastern side of the gyratory. Traffic has been reduced to one lane in both directions and this is likely to impact on driving times. Signs are placed in the area around the gyratory and in approaching roads to warn drivers of the changes. Please visit the TfL website to plan your journey.

The Council will be consulting on longer term plans for the area early in 2017, and all residents and businesses will be given the opportunity to help shape the final design. Subject to approval the town centre improvement works will take place until Summer 2018.

Pupils' St James heritage visit

- Pupils from Mission Grove learn about history of St James Street
- £2.9million restoration scheme will be completed next year

Local pupils visited St James Street to find out more about its history and how it has changed over time

A group of students from Mission Grove Primary School took a trip back in time recently to learn more about the heritage of Walthamstow's historic St James Street.

More than 90 year 5 pupils took part in a day of fun and educational activities on Monday 5 December, organised by the Council as part of the Walthamstow St James Townscape Heritage Project.

Nearly £3million is being invested to preserve and enhance the historic character of the St James Conservation Area, which is located at the western end of Walthamstow High Street. The Council has put together a community programme as part of the project, which includes heritage education for schools, colleges and local residents, and a series of activities including oral history workshops.

Pupils taking part in the visit were split into three separate groups at the start of the day so they could get involved in a series of different activities on offer. These included a special outdoor treasure hunt, where pupils had to track down points of interest around the Conservation Area, including the historic 'griffin' statues that are being restored in their original locations.

Children also took part in a game of 'spot the difference' where they were given archive photos of St James Street and asked to find the location where it was taken. Once they had found the location they could note all the changes that had taken place in the area over the years and restage the photograph in its current setting.

Activities also took place at the project hub at The Mill (Coppermill Lane, E17 7HA), where the pupils listened to oral history recordings and interviews about local people's memories of St James Street, and were even able to record some of their own, with assistance from the Waltham Forest Oral History Workshop.

Bea Carter, teacher at Mission Grove Primary School said: "Our trip to St James Street was great fun, all the children were full of enthusiasm exploring their local area. The children were able to investigate and discover information independently, which has really inspired them to learn more about the history of Walthamstow."

Cllr Clare Coghill, Cabinet Member for Economic Growth and High Streets said: "I'm really pleased that we were able to put on this event so that the pupils from Mission Grove could learn more about the rich history of St James Street. The regeneration project is an exciting scheme which will revitalise the Conservation Area whilst preserving and restoring its historic architecture, and we wanted to make sure that we took every opportunity to really get the local community involved."

The St James Conservation Area is a historically important commercial area containing various examples of nineteenth and early twentieth century architecture developed by the local Victorian property owner, TC Warner.

The £2.9million restoration scheme received a grant of £1.46million from the Heritage Lottery Fund (HLF), with the Council investing £1.34million and other contributions coming from local businesses and volunteers such as the St James Big Local group.

The Conservation Area will benefit from vital building conservation and repair work on up to 50 properties, including the restoration of historic features. Construction is due to complete by spring 2017.

There will also be a number of public realm improvements including the junction at St James Street and the High Street being transformed into a visually appealing 'gateway' to the area. Other work will include improvements to pavements and lighting, and the removal of unnecessary signage and clutter. Work on the public realm improvements will be completed by Summer 2017.

Cycling funding

Two local groups, Salaam Peace and Higham Hill Community Outdoor Group (COG), are celebrating after they each secured £10,000 from Cycling Grants London to deliver community cycling schemes in the borough. Salaam Peace will be using their funding to deliver a three-year cycle training programme, aimed at different levels of cycling ability. The COG is run from the Hub in Higham Hill (Hecham Close, E17 5QT) and is a partnership between British Cycling, the Metropolitan Police and the Council. They will be using the funding to set up an after-school cycling club and to establish a programme of community-led rides in the borough.

Lea Valley Eastside

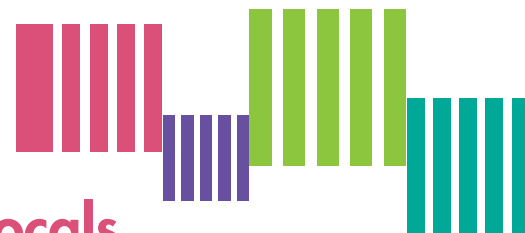

Residents and businesses are being encouraged to have their say on the Council's vision for Lea Valley Eastside, a new plan for how the Leyton and Lea Bridge area could change over the next 10 years. The vision covers an area as large as the City of London, sitting between the Lea Valley and the Olympic Park. The scheme will see the creation of nearly 4,500 new homes along with business space which will generate thousands of new jobs. Residents can take part in an online consultation which will be open until Tuesday 31 January, and there will also be a series of public exhibitions next month.

• To take part in the consultation visit <http://walthamforest-consult.limehouse.co.uk/portal/leabridge/leyton>. For details of the public exhibitions taking place in January visit www.walthamforest.gov.uk/content/regeneration-projects.

DisabledGo

If you or a family member has a disability, you can now find up-to-date information about the accessibility of hundreds of venues across the borough, online. The Council, in partnership with national access provider DisabledGo, has unveiled an updated guide covering venue information such as ramps, steps and accessible toilets, lighting levels, background noise and music, signage and directions, hearing assistance devices and staff training around disability equality. As part of the research process, DisabledGo's surveyors visited and assessed 1,000 venues, and engaged and consulted with carers, older people and disabled people living in the borough.

Consultation on our proposals for Library Locals

As part of our Vision for Library Locals we propose to relocate Higham Hill and Wood Street Libraries and remodel Lea Bridge Library.

In response to your feedback from our recent consultation, we have created an additional survey that asks for your views on the proposals to relocate libraries, sets out the other options that have been considered, and gives you the opportunity to provide your view on any alternative options you would like to be considered.

We have extended the consultation period in order for residents to complete this survey, and the original survey will remain available to complete during this time. Even if you don't use the library service, we'd still really like to hear your views on our proposals – so please do complete this new survey.

The consultation period has been extended until 31 January 2017.

Healthy Schools success

- More wins for schools in London-wide health awards programme
- Chingford primary becomes first borough school to win gold award

Local schools involved in a London-wide health awards programme have been reaching new heights of success in 2016 – and this month one local primary has gone a step further by becoming the first school in Waltham Forest to receive a gold award for its commitment to health and wellbeing.

The Healthy Schools London programme, which is supported and managed locally by the Council's Public Health team, sees schools given bronze, silver or gold awards based on their efforts to create an environment that safeguards and promotes the health and wellbeing of pupils, staff and the wider school community.

At the start of the year, Waltham Forest had just three silver award schools – but fast forward 12 months and the borough now boasts eight schools that have achieved silver, along with 27 bronze. And, staff and students at St Mary's Catholic Primary School, in Chingford, have been celebrating this month, as they became Waltham Forest's first gold award school.

Healthy Schools London awards focus on four key areas – emotional health and wellbeing, physical activity, healthy eating and personal, social and health education (PSHE) – with schools focusing more on their individual health needs for the silver and gold awards.

St Mary's Catholic Primary School's gold award application centred on healthy eating, specifically increasing the number of pupils eating fruit and vegetables with lunchtime meals along with improving food growing in the school.

Headteacher Philomena Egan said: "We were delighted to be awarded the Healthy Schools gold award which reflects the commitment by the whole school community to encourage our pupils to make healthy choices with their eating."

"All of our pupils now understand what constitutes a healthy balanced meal. This knowledge enables them to make healthy choices at meal times and will have a positive impact on their lives.

"Our Year 4 class were able to grow and eat a selection of fruit and vegetables from our school garden whilst our Year 3 class used talents to lead an assembly on 'Healthy Bodies & Healthy Minds'."

St Mary's is not the only school to have made significant achievements around health and wellbeing in the past year. Davies Lane Primary School and Gwyn Jones Primary School in Leytonstone, along with Thorpe Hall Primary School, Kelmscott School, and Willowfield Humanities College, in Walthamstow, have all made successful bids for silver awards.

Currently, more than three quarters of schools in the borough take part in the Healthy Schools London programme, and the Council's Public Health team is on hand to support any school interested in signing up.

Cllr Grace Williams, Cabinet

Member for Children and Young People, said: "Every school taking part in the Healthy Schools London programme deserves to be congratulated for demonstrating a clear commitment to creating healthy environments for our young people.

"And of course, congratulations must go to St Mary's – I hope the hard work and dedication shown by its school community will inspire others to strive to achieve the same success."

Cllr Ahsan Khan, Cabinet Member for Health and Wellbeing, said: "We've seen some fantastic work take place in our schools recently to educate young people about the importance of good health and wellbeing as they grow up.

"For example, earlier this year we became the first borough to launch a Youth Health Champions programme, which sees peer mentors promote health and wellbeing among other young people. Since September, these mentors have already helped increase awareness of healthy and active lifestyles through campaigns around exam stress, emotional wellbeing, stopping smoking, anti-bullying and LGBT rights."

Partnership working is key to improving health outcomes, and at primary school level the Council's Public Health team is working alongside London Sport to deliver a mentoring programme to improve sport and physical activity, as well as working with London Play to increase physical activity levels across three schools in the borough.

The Council has also successfully secured funding to improve food culture and provision in schools through the Food for Life awards scheme, which champions the benefits of healthy, tasty and sustainable food.

In brief

Flu vaccination reminder

Older people, young children, pregnant women, carers and residents living with a long-term health condition are being urged to have a free flu vaccination to protect themselves and their families from seasonal flu this winter. Waltham Forest Council's Public Health team is advising eligible residents to have their free vaccination at their GP or pharmacist. Those eligible are children aged two to four, pregnant women, people aged under 65 with a long-term condition (such as diabetes, asthma, or a weakened immune system), anyone aged 65 and over and carers. Children are eligible for a free nasal spray flu vaccine – a quick, effective and painless alternative to the injection.

• For more information on seasonal flu, and the flu vaccine, visit www.nhs.uk/flu or phone 111.
